

Erasmus+ Summary meeting Slovenia

April 3 - 7, 2017

European possibilities activities:

Preparation:

Prior to arriving to Slovenia, the students completed various tasks including designing their own personal, unique portfolio which included their cv, a job application, and an example of a potential job ad. The task was meaningful for the students but the results were not the same. Due to the differences in the various cultures as to how jobs are searched and applied for, the portfolios developed were vastly different.

An additional task the students completed in preparation of their Slovenia experience was to interview prior Erasmus students. The types of interviews varied, as did the questions, while some of the interviews were filmed, others were completed via Skype, and one, was a live interview in Slovenia. The students in the various countries enjoyed completing this interviewing task but a rather lengthy amount of time was spent for all of the students to see all of the interviews and this should be examined.

Coordinators meeting:

The coordinators presented to each other the topic of "How do we help our students to find a job?"

The various educational systems, requirements and possibilities were shown and discussed amongst the coordinators.

Student presentations: The students from each country put together exciting and creative film/presentations showing what its like to be part of their school. The time spent on these presentations were useful and it was obvious that the students were highly engaged. The students listening to the presentations showed also an interest and appreciation in recognizing similarities and differences among the various schools presented.

Icebreaker, T-shirts

The icebreaker games have become a useful and fun way for the various teachers and students to mingle and become even more familiar with each other. The games are filled with opportunities to communicate, smile and enjoy getting to know each other in this program. T-shirts are also awarded to the students in a formal fashion, with an emphasis on understanding their involvement in the Erasmus program and the honor and responsibilities that are tied to it.

TV-station visit: The students were given the opportunity to visit a real TV station and learned how reporters, film crew and other staff coordinate their efforts to produce TV programs in Slovenia. The students were highly engaged in learning about the equipment, had hands on experiences and some were even interviewed by the stations reporter. A truly memorable experience for all.

Container harbour Koper. Some of the teachers, coordinators and headmaster also had an experience at the harbor Koper.

Problem solving workshop

The Polish coordinator, Anna organized a workshop called “Problem solving skills”. A variety of of fun and challenging activities were presented whereby the students and teachers in groups had to think “out of the box” and using communication strategies to solve various problems. A very enjoyable session for both the teachers and students.
